Afterward a Christmas party was held with Mrs. Agnes Powers as mistress of ceremonies, assisted by a generous and lively Santa Claus portrayed by Miss Mary Van Buren. The identification of the secret friends created much fun and many gifts were exchanged.

The Rev. Austin V. Carey gave a talk on the text "God came unto His own and His own knew Him not." He advised the Daughters to prepare devotionally for the coming of the Christchild and to receive communion not only on Christmas Day but every day to follow in appreciation of God's work. He called attention to a letter written by a blind soldier, which appeared in The Freeman Thursday evening.

NEW EXAMPLE OF HOSTESS
SERVING SELF FIRST

Most of my readers know by this time my violent disapproval of the hostess who serves herself first. The following letter is a new angle of it that I never before have encountered: "A couple whom I know gave a large party in a public dance hall. They had tables around the wall and later in the evening, we were asked to go to a buffet and help ourselves and then sit down at these tables. At this same time, we were asked to form a line, the host and hostess leading the grand march as it were. Was it proper for them to get their food first and take it to their table and begin to eat when none of their guests had been served?"

The answer is no! In fact, they should have stayed at the table, helped to serve their guests, and served themselves last!

Saying Grace at Wedding Reception

Dear Mrs. Post: At a wedding breakfast for about 150 guests, among whom there will be several clergymen, should one of these be asked to say grace?

Answer: Personally, I never have heard grace asked at a wedding breakfast. This does not mean that it is incorrect or probably unheard of in many localities. If it is said, I think the clergyman who read the marriage service should be the one to say it.

Names Not the Same

Dear Mrs. Post: Would it make any difference in the use of "and" after our son's name, if we changed the spelling of his first name from that of his uncle? In other words, the uncle is "John" and we propose to call our son "Jon."

Answer: Yes, it would make a different name and "Junior" should be omitted.

Wedding Cake and Boutonnieres

At Second Wedding

Dear Mrs. Post: Is a white-iced wedding cake banned at a second wedding? I am referring to a real wedding cake that has the conventionally dressed bride and groom figurines decorating it. And what about white boutonnieres for the men at a second wedding?

Answer: Both white-iced and traditionally decorated wedding cake and white boutonnieres are not only permissible, but also customary.

After cutting meat, should the fork be transferred to the other hand? Send for the leaflet, "Zig-zag Eating," obtainable for a 3-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope to Mrs. Post in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York, 19, N. Y.

WOODSTOCK SITE FOR STUDENTS

Residents of the Town of Woodstock feel that the cultural and economic life of their community would be enhanced greatly by the establishment of the Art Students League, Inc., of New York in the buildings, which formerly housed the National Youth Administration at Woodstock and which have been offered the League rent free.

The government spent a very large amount of money in the N.Y.A. project and erected the buildings on property owned by the City of Kingston on the Saugerties-Woodstock road. Following the discontinuance of the N.Y.A. the government sold the buildings to Harold Gottfried and the Kingston Water Board ordered the new owner to remove the buildings from the property. The buildings are still standing.

Whether the League will be established in the Woodstock buildings, which are said to be ideal for a school for artists, will depend on the action of the Kingston Water Board.

Students of the League are enthusiastic over the Ulster county artist center and have pressed for a branch of the school in Woodstock. The Art Students League is the largest organization of fine art schools in the country and has given the residents of the community and surrounding area fine intellectual programs. The organization is prepared to handle much larger programs.

EFFORTLESS PLAY

Modern man, freed from much of the manual labor which used to be everyone's lot, has manufactured exercise for himself in the line of recreation.

One popular sport which uses the larger muscles to good effect is bowling, which is suited to men and women of all ages. Now, however, a machine has been developed which takes the work out of this sport. The object is the same as before, to knock over pins with a heavy ball, but the alleys are padded and the pins encased in rubber, making a quieter game. The player no longer propels the ball by hand, with what strength and skill he can summon, but guides its ejection from a machine which starts it whirling rapidly before it is released.

Perhaps someone will soon come forward with a rocket-propelled golf ball which could be sent unerringly to its hole from the shady haven of the club veranda. And in the end shall we come around to wood-chopping as a sport?

A man never ceases to wonder how his wife can thread a needle practically immediately, especially when it is done by artificial light.

UNDERSTANDING CHARLES

Englishman Michael Joseph, who has written much about cats, has a little book about his 13-year friendship with his Siamese cat, Charles, whose name is the volume's title. The work has its appreciative readers, recently having gone into its eighth printing, in the face of England's paper shortage.

Charles went to war with his master, who, a veteran of World War I, had to be content with home defense along the English coast. Beginning with the backwash from Dunkirk this became a strenuous, hazardous job with nightly bombings and the recurring commotion of battle stations manned against incessant raids. Charles, calm and unperturbed, won the affection of the whole battalion, colonel and Tommies alike, including the tough regimental sergeant-major.

Few dogs would have endured the racket and confusion. But a cat—ah! there's an animal capable of adjusting to any situation. People miss much, say cat-lovers, who have never lived with a cat, especially a Siamese. That is a creature rightly called royal. Naturally Author Joseph wanted to take Charles with him to war. And of course Charles understood.

MURDER WILL OUT

Last Sunday I listened to an address against euthanasia, which is a long name for legally authorizing doctors to kill their patients, if the doctors and the patient agree upon it. It would seem that the man who is advocating this kind of killing is Dr. Charles Potter, who was present on the occasion and who, having taken offense at something I said, told me that there is another side to the story, to which I replied that there can be no two sides to murder.

Dr. Charles Francis Potter looked to me like a genial, friendly person who wants to do good in the world. In fact, he reminded me much of Dr. Frank Buchman, the founder of the Oxford Movement. So you could have knocked me over when it turned out that it was this cheerful gentleman who favored giving doctors the legal right to clout the "incurable" out of existence. Or if not to clout them—what a horrible word!—to give them an overdose of some drug until they pass into eternity. This is no novel idea. I looked it up in Western-marks' "The Origin and Development of the Moral Ideas," which deals learnedly with such matters and found that mercy killing was quite usual among savages who, weak in morals and lacking medical knowledge, desperately reached the conclusion that the only thing to do about the decrepit aged was to kill them as mercilessly as a savage could do. They also killed surplus children, particularly infants least likely to succeed.

From Moses to Hitler, civilization has been marked by an increasing regard for the sacredness of the life of man. Hitler was the first real break in the upward march of human standards. And the world was horrified by the Nazi concept of genocide, of the murder of an entire people. Since V-J Day we have been literally appalled by the accounts of the use which the German medical profession, distorted by Nazi ideologies and under the fierce political pressures of Hitler's government, made of the live human body. Of course, that was not mercy killing, but it was killing for science. It was human vivisection.

And when I think of Dr. Potter's proposition that by an act of legislation the State of New York authorize doctors to kill some of their patients, I see before me a friend in his seventies who has been restored from what seemed to be a hopeless cancer. I cannot tell his story—it is his to tell when he is ready and everybody will surely read that story some day soon. But this I saw with my own eyes: he stood before a meeting of men of his profession and off the record told of his experiences with the resilience of a strong and healthy man. Suppose a doctor had been authorized by law to murder this useful and distinguished man because his case seemed hopeless—killed him a month or two before his life could be saved!

Old-age, ill-health and pain come to most of us and I suppose that sooner or later we may all seem to be useless and better dead than alive. But who can take it upon himself to decide that? My own father suffered from diabetes before there was any insulin. But insulin did come and has added years of usefulness to men and women. We know nothing yet of what radio-active drugs may do to those who today seem to be hopelessly incurable. We are just learning about the Rf factor in the blood of infants. We know so very little and it is so easy to feel so big. But life is not of man's making; he must not take it away.

Euthanasia is a reversion to the savagery of the son who tapped his ancient father on the head, but the law of Moses said: "Honor thy father and thy mother that thy days may be long." And it also said: "Thou shalt not kill." And that is the moral law. The State of New York will not authorize murder, but it is starting to find a Christian clergyman who would have it sanctioned. THAT BODY OF YOURS

DIARRHOEA
While experience shows that there are a great many individuals who suffer with constipation physicians know that there is a considerable percentage of the population who suffer with diarrhoea. Now, generally speaking, it would appear that diarrhoea is not as serious as constipation because it shows that the intestine is alert and trying to drive harmful substances downward and out of the body. Persistent diarrhoea not only clears out the small and large intestine but carries with it much of the iron, calcium, and phosphorus needed by all the cells of the body.

In Clinical Medicine, Dr. Charles W. Hock, University of Chicago, Department of Medicine, points out that diarrhoea is a symptom, not a disease and therefore the cause should be sought by careful examination. Diarrhoea in several members of the family or of a community means that it is not caused by infection in the individual cases, so other causes must be investigated. When patients have diarrhoea only at times, careful history and investigation will likely show allergy to certain foods as the cause.

If diarrhoea occurs when the individual is under stress or other emotional disturbance then functional not organic disease is the cause.

As diarrhoea is a "drain" to the body, in any case, and may be a sign of serious disease Dr. Hock states that all methods of examination should be made—examination of lower bowel by the sigmoidoscope (which enables the physician to see lining of the bowel), microscope, X-ray, culture tube and other laboratory methods. Some of the possible causes of persistent diarrhoea are cancer, obstruction, ulcerative colitis.

Where there is an acute attack of diarrhoea with vomiting the stomach should be washed out with an alkaline solution such as a teaspoon of baking soda to a quart of warm water. If the attack has followed eating of infected or indigestible food the diarrhoea will carry this away. Some physicians give a dose of castor oil or epsom salts where no suspicion of appendicitis is present.

James McClenahan Writes Interesting Letter to His Friends Here About Tokyo

Local Soldier is in Japan Capital With Counter Intelligence Corps of the Army

James McClenahan, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. McClenahan of 52 Chapel street, has written an interesting letter to his friends about Tokyo as he found it on his arrival last month. He is stationed in the Japanese capital city with the Counter Intelligence Corps of the army. Mr. McClenahan was graduated from Kingston High School in 1944 and after attending Union College for a year, entered service. He has a diploma from the Yale University school of languages, where he learned Japanese.

"I promised so many of you that I would surely write and tell you all about Japan, that now when the time comes I find I have so much to tell and so many to whom I wish to describe Japan; that it becomes almost impossible. Therefore I humbly ask you to accept this general letter to all of you as the only practical solution to my problem.

"We were all glad to see Yokohama harbor on November 22. We began to feel the strangeness of being in an entirely new country. Even the air smelled differently. The city of Yokohama like most Japanese cities is a weird mixture of oriental and western tastes. Common to all of Japan's cities we noticed the filth and general poverty of the masses. There was some evidence of the bombing done by the Americans in 1945. A bridge was piled high in the corner of a demolished and fire gutter foundation. Temporary housing of bamboo was to be seen all over. One had to marvel at the small living quarters of some families. Ten people may live in one small room.

"As far as transportation goes it has its many peculiarities in itself. It seems in Japan everything is built for a smaller sized people than in America. Consequently the street cars were only a little over half the length and height of the American streetcars and the tracks were much narrower. The same was true of the railroad. More amazing than this was the great variety of vehicles on the streets. Jeeps, oxcarts and oxen, horses or donkeys pulling wagons, bicycles with trailers, motorcycles with enormous sidecars, small cars looking very similar to a toy or a Crosley also exact replicas of American Ford cars only built to a minor scale. Most of the Japanese civilian cars have the engine converted to one burning charcoal and situated in the rear trunk. This is due to the scarcity of gasoline.

The Black Market
Cigarettes, candy, food, housing, transportation and clothes are almost out of the question. Everything seems to be bought and sold on the black market. The Japanese yen is badly inflated. The official exchange rate is 15 to a dollar, however, no one has any trouble in buying 15 yen on the black market for one dollar.

"The black market is truly misleading to you at home, since in Japan it is very different. It takes place on the streets of the public market or Tokyo Ghetto where every conceivable thing is sold from chocolate to American 21 brand Longacre Wampas shoes. Such a watch I proved yesterday at 6,800 yen or at the official exchange rate of 15 to 1 a little over $450. However, the G.I.s are selling cigarettes, candy and soap to the Japanese and draw enormous profits, greater than for instance a carton of American cigarettes which a soldier buys for 65 cents can be sold for at least 300 yen or $20. To curb this, such scarce items are rationed to members of the armed forces and also forbidden to be sold. One can marvel at the economic standard here as they do not seem to haggle over prices; they have a set price and they know they can get it.

"The Tokyo Ginza is an area in which most of the retail trading is done in the streets. Masses of people will go through the streets looking at the merchants' wares which have been set up in small portable booths on the edge of the street. The Japanese workmanship and material is both beautiful and colorful. Their silk and metal work with brass and silver is very admirable; however, gold does not exist on the market. Everywhere one goes after the leaving the army area, he encounters the disgusting sweet sickly odor of Japanese incense and perfume. It keeps me forever from forgetting you are in Asia and not in America.

"The custom of driving to the left side of the street to me is most confusing. I do a little driving of a jeep and I must constantly remember to cut my right hand turns very wide and my left hand ones sharply. Another example of this is when we Americans go across the street, we naturally look to the left to see the approaching traffic. Here that is just opposite.

Amazing Incident
"A rather amusing incident happened to me the first day. I went downtown to Tokyo which is about two miles from our quarters here. I went with several fellows in a jeep and we split up downtown. I soon realized that I was lost in the third largest city in the world; however, I felt a little confident and not at all worried because I thought with my knowledge of Japanese I could always manage to get directions. First I sought American G.I.s or M.P.s, to see and the few I found didn't know where this building was. I sought out a Japanese policeman and proceeded in my best Japanese to request him for directions to Norton Hall (which by the way is the name of this luxurious hotel which was formerly the Kempe Tai building housing the dread secret police of the Japanese). To get back to the story the Japanese policeman didn't seem to know of any building by the name of Norton Hall, so I asked me to accompany him to the police headquarters about a block away. The police chief could speak fairly fluent English and knew very well where I wanted to go. He also realized that I was a member of the C.I.C. They greatly feared and respect us as being immediately issued me a guide to take me and put me on the right streetcar. He also wrote out in Japanese orders to the conductor as to where I was to get off. It was then around five in the afternoon and the usually crowded streetcar system was at its worst. However, the Japanese cop proceeded to stop the streetcar in the middle of the block and low and behold it was extremely overcrowded, people were hanging from everywhere. The cop very promptly yanked off three poor Japanese nationals and put me on handing the conductor the order and bowing as I thanked him.

"Usually G.I.s don't ride the civilian transportation but if they do it's all free even the railroad. Indeed I felt sorry for the three displaced Japanese nationals but I was lost and the situation was out of my control. Everything ended up all right and I know now much more about Tokyo.

Beautiful Scenery
"The scenery here in Tokyo is very beautiful. Just outside the city and high and lofty is Mt. Fuji which is practically sacred to the people of Japan. Just across the street in front of my room is a small park with a solid stone across it that meets a solid stone wall about 40 feet high. This moat and wall completely surround the old city of Tokyo and the Imperial Palace and Grounds. Originally this moat and wall were for protection, however, now they keep souvenir seeking G.I.s out. From my fourth story window I can see over the wall and everything is extremely well kept; the palace is not in view, however, many Shinjuku Shrine can be seen.

"This building called by the Americans as Norton Hall is now occupied entirely by the 441st C.I.C. Detachment. Five of us fellows have a room. Two Japanese girls are our maids doing such work as making our beds, cleaning the room three times a day, arranging our clothes, shining our shoes, cleaning the windows and all the usual duties. The dining room is beautiful, seating 144 people. It is staffed by more than 40 Japanese waiters who do their very best to keep us happy. No more chow lines. The food is served for 1½ at each meal and the food and service is delicious. Real eggs for breakfast, real waltz toast, all the jam and butter we can eat. A waiter is always replenishing your cup. We eat with real silverware and tablecloths. On Sunday and today (Thanksgiving), they use beautiful silk tablecloths. The china is real good china which is such a pleasant change from the mess gear.

"Everything about this place is so utterly different. Besides coming to a new country, I have become a member of the best fed, clothed and cared for organization in the U.S. Army. Here we have the same food, privileges and quarters as the officers which is even better than those civilians who are working as aids to our armed forces. The government stresses that we are not to mingle with other soldiers if at all possible. We don't wear any rank brass or hat colors; which is the same as the uniform of the American civilians working here; so as far as workers know we are government workers and not soldiers. The chances for promotion are very good. If only I were 20 years old, I would have a good chance of getting a commission or a warrant officer. This outfit by a special directive from General MacArthur is the only division of the army now that can get a commission without going through Officers' Candidate School.

"It seems very odd to suddenly come into a position where one has a great deal of authority over almost everyone. We rate a salute and "sir" on these grounds and the Japanese just bend over backwards in an attempt to stay friendly with us. They have a dreadful fear of the name of anyone quite well and are very interested and amazingly educational but it does require much patience and self-control. I can't tell you with whom I work or what I'm doing, but that is a small right to surrender in return for my position. You will

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By HAL BOYLE

New York, Dec. 14 (AP)—On a Saturday two years ago the forces of a dying nation began a last convulsive struggle that turned the static western front into a blood bath and electrified America.

It was the opening of the famous "Battle of the Bulge," a wintry defeat which the American Army turned into victory at one of the highest prices in its history.

What memories are stirred up this day in the hearts of survivors of that ghastly prolonged nightmare in Belgium's bitter snow! The Germans came without warning as they had for centuries—they came by the same roads they travelled in 1914 and 1940.

"They came in tanks and armored cars in the early morning hours, swirling through the darkness like hailstones of steel, straight through the Schnee Eifel, that lonesome "snow ridge" where the 106th Infantry Division, new to battle, waited.

They came by every road. Across every hill. With Hitler's prize S.S. men in the lead. Those were gay days for the S.S. boys—they shot down a force of Americans herded with hands up into a field near Malmédy. They shot down Belgian civilians. It was their last big blood letting.

They came out of the skies by parachute. They sifted through the lines in captured clothing and captured jeeps. And every American soldier was suspicious of his brother in uniform and checked him with questions about who won the World Series and who was the first president.

And one Negro truckdriver, tired of the questions, told a guard road "Quit this tomfoolery, white boy, and let me get on with my load. You know I ain't one of them Nazis."

The Germans surrounded some American outposts and bounced off others. They drove their all begin to realize why I re-enlisted now. I'm now in a period of a practical school and getting acquainted with the work. I'll probably remain here at least three weeks more and then be shipped to a smaller outfit elsewhere where I will actually begin to do some work for the army.

Special Equipment
"The special equipment issued us is amazing. Every two fellows draw a jeep and unlimited gasoline, a watch, a radio, all the clothes and technical equipment he deems necessary. Around the first of the year, when I get through this first period of semi-instruction, I'll be issued my badge and credentials; which will give me the power to enter, search and seize property, also to place a Japanese under arrest without a charge for 24 days. So all in all, you see we lead a very safe life here; however, it does cause a large amount of responsibility and judgment upon our shoulders. We have to be so much more careful than an ordinary soldier because we have so much more to lose.

"This group is so young and inexperienced for this sort of thing; many of the experienced agents frown upon us. They have nicknamed us the Yale Quiz Kids. However, these fellows are pretty good fellows and they are taking the thing seriously and we should be able to win their confidence in a short time. We will stay here in Norton Hall until Christmas or thereabouts and after that we haven't much idea where we'll go. There isn't too much work to be done here in Japan, however, over in Korea quite a little trouble seems to be brewing.

"The other day I was down near the hotel which before the war was the number one Western hotel in Japan. Now it is general headquarters and has General MacArthur's office on the sixth floor. The other day when I was down there I saw a large crowd of Japanese and Allied men around the entrance. I learned that MacArthur was soon to come out, so I waited around to see him and soon he came out and stepped into his beautiful Cadillac limousine. He looks very much like his pictures except he looks younger to me. I saluted while the Japanese all lay prostrate on the sidewalk and he saluted and that was all there was to it. It goes to show that these Japanese really have great and sincere respect for MacArthur. He definitely here in Tokyo we have many soldiers from Allied nations, British, French, Australian, India and even a Scot's regiment. They take turns in guarding the Imperial Palace which is right across from us.

"By the way a rather morbid piece of interesting information is that in the basement of this very building is where the Japanese secret police tortured and killed 30 American fliers. You all must remember that. On the other side of the picture right now in Tokyo they're trying the Japanese War Crimes Trials. We best interested about it is the fact that the Japanese artist imagined the face and clothes of the Madonna and Christ child as typically Japanese. But that can easily be understood. The few Japanese Christians over here are really taking advantage of the new religious freedom and most of their few churches have been destroyed, they are working feverishly in an attempt to console many more to Christianity. The Japanese women will be of interest to some of you and in

Christmas Card
"The chapel services are just a block away and the service is really nice. I enclose a Japanese Christmas card because it was made for the Japanese and not us. It was made by a group of Japanese Catholic nuns. Most interesting about it is the fact that the Japanese artist imagined the face and clothes of the Madonna and Christ child as typically Japanese. But that can easily be understood. The few Japanese Christians over here are really taking advantage of the new religious freedom and most of their few churches have been destroyed, they are working feverishly in an attempt to console many more to Christianity. Japs Invite Tourists
"The Japanese feel inclined to boast to the world of the gastronomic attractions of their country," says Tokyo, in the Japan Travel Bureau's first postwar brochure, written in excellent English, printed on glossy art paper, and inviting the world to visit Japan again. "Among the fine arts the Japanese print is the earliest to be appreciated by Westerners," it says. "Japanese wood cuts are treasured in the houses of art-lovers in all countries of Europe and America."

The G.I. over here is greatly handicapped in meeting or knowing any Japanese civilians because of existing military regulations. However, and this may surprise you, there are many American civilians and war girls here in Tokyo. Since Tokyo is full of typists and typewriters, a good typist is in extreme demand and said to be "worth her weight in gold."

Says Germans Flew Over U. S. During War

Boston, Dec. 14 (AP)—A report that a German airplane flew over American cities along the Atlantic seaboard, including Boston and New York, during the war was made yesterday by the former commander of an American Photographic Reconnaissance Squadron.

Richard S. Leghorn of Winchester, who held the rank of lieutenant colonel, told a group of optical scientists, that documents found after the German surrender claimed a modified Focke Wulf "200" flew the reconnaissance trip over the Atlantic seaboard in 1943.

Speaking at ceremonies marking the opening of the Boston University Army Air Forces optical research laboratory, Leghorn said that the flight of the German plane originated at an airfield in France.

He declined to comment further.

Renewal of Residential Rent Control Urged

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 14 (AP)—Renewal of the state's residential rent control law, with ceilings frozen at June 30, 1946, levels, was urged today by the joint rent action committee.

Former Assemblyman John J. Lamula of New York city, committee legislative representative, asked Governor Dewey to recommend extension of the law and an amendment to preclude any federally authorized increases of the future.

The state law, designed to become effective automatically should federal controls be removed, would continue rents at the federal ceilings. It expires June 30, 1947. Assemblyman D. Malory Stephens, chairman of the joint legislative committee on rents, has predicted the law would be extended for a year by the 1947 legislature.

Molotov told the World Assembly that disarmament would be hailed with a sigh of relief in all countries, but added that "there still is frenzied propaganda in favor of a new war."

Turning to the atomic bomb, the Soviet foreign minister said: "It is clear that atomic weapons are not for defense and, therefore, when people tell us of their interest in the defense of their countries it goes without saying that such defense is not by atomic bombs. The atomic bomb is not destined for use in one's own country. Its destination is in another territory."

"We are willing to share our knowledge of atomic weapons with the rest of the world on the condition, and only on the condition, that other nations submit, as we are willing to submit, to internationally controlled inspection and safeguards."

Molotov did not offer to disclose the number of Soviet troops abroad or at home. But he announced that he would insist on debate over his demands for a worldwide census of troops and armaments, including the atomic bomb, after the arms vote.

family perished in the tenement collapse. The bodies of Mrs. Macelline Sloane, 36, and her daughters, Rita, 11, and Judith, 4, were removed previously.

With all hope gone that anyone was still alive, huge cranes and pneumatic drills again were used after the diggers had resorted to bare hands and small tools in an effort to minimize the possibility of another collapse.

Atmosphere Is Funereal

But despite the noise and dust and activity, a funereal atmosphere clung to the scene of destruction.

Fire Marshal Thomas P. Brophy reported to Mayor William O'Dwyer that two fires in the ice plant's roof beams, causing the roof to cave in and push the wall onto the tenement.

Two boys, 13 and 10, were held as juvenile delinquents on arson charges in connection with the first blaze.

Justice Hubert T. Delany of Children's Court convicted the boys of juvenile delinquency yesterday in connection with the first blaze, but declared:

"There is no evidence that was disclosed that the fire they set caused the collapse of the ice house. I don't want any neighbors or schoolmates to point out these children as the ones who caused the deaths of so many persons. There is no proof that they did."

1,200 Store Workers Go Out on Strike

New York, Dec. 14 (AP)—Twelve hundred employees of 170 Safeway grocery stores in the metropolitan area went on strike today in a dispute over wages.

A survey shortly after the strike hour of 8 a. m. showed virtually all the firm's stores in Manhattan and the Bronx were closed. A few were open, with only the manager on duty. C.I.O. union pickets were on duty at most places.

There was no immediate report on the status of the firm's stores in Westchester and Nassau counties and in New Jersey. All the stores operate on a self-service system.

Thefts Are Big Business

Shortages of silk stockings, clothing, shoes, fish, fruit and a dozen other things have led to a tremendous increase in thefts from railroads, London reports. In 1945, such stealing amounted to $10,000,000. Crooks think of ingenious devices to get away with the goods. Recently, as a cart left a certain station the horse snorted and reared its head. There was a clink of glass in the nosebag. A policeman investigated and found four bottles of whisky. The driver admitted he had got away with as many as 30 bottles a day.

The New York State Labor Relations Board has ruled that the bartenders of the Stuyvesant Hotel are a proper bargaining unit and has ordered an election on Friday, December 20, at 2:30 at the hotel to determine whether or not the bartenders desire a union.

George E. Yerry, Jr., business agent of the Hotel and Bartenders Union Local, said the Board's decision was telephoned to him yesterday by Harry MacDaniel, the Board's attorney in charge of the mid-Hudson district.

The decision, Mr. Yerry declared, upheld every contention of the Hotel and Bartenders Union relative to the Stuyvesant employees, and will be used as a basis for organization of bartenders in all Ulster county restaurants, taverns and hotels.

The Board's decision climaxed extensive litigation by both parties. The State Labor Board conducted a hearing in Kingston on October 16 at the court house and heard arguments from both sides.

Throughout the prolonged negotiations, the Stuyvesant Hotel management contended that the Hotel and Bartenders Union did not have a majority of all the Stuyvesant employees and would not consent to bargaining until the union was able to prove that it did. The union contended that it was interested in unionizing only the bartenders and that the bartenders were a proper bargaining agent. The Labor Board's decision has upheld this contention.

Returned From Greensboro, N. C.

Lester Huckaby Charged With Burglary Here

Lester Huckaby, 18, of Greensboro, N. C., was returned to Ulster county Friday by Sheriff George C. Smith to face the grand jury on a charge of third degree burglary.

Huckaby, who is alleged to have been involved in a burglary case in Kingston on October 6, was picked up near his home by F.B.I. agents and held for the arrival of Sheriff Smith. County Investigator Clayton Vredenberg accompanied the sheriff to Greensboro.

Although the specific charge against Huckaby is third degree burglary, he is alleged to have been involved in a grand larceny case. He will be held in the county jail pending the grand jury hearing.

Sheriff Smith pointed out that Huckaby was apprehended under the comparatively new "unlawful flight status" law. Under this law, F.B.I. agents assist local law enforcement agencies when a man has crossed state lines in order to evade prosecution. Under the new measure the F.B.I. moves into the case much faster than under previous regulations.

State Police at Highland and Lake Katrine were asked by Police Headquarters to check for a truck that, it was charged, had gone on without stopping after striking the car of Tony Turck of 76 Fairmount avenue and doing damage estimated at $200.

Report to the police stated that shortly before 11 o'clock last night a trailer truck, turning left from John street into Fair street, had run upon the sidewalk, the rear end striking the Turck car. The truck was described as having a green tractor with red body and bearing a New Jersey license plate.

Food Bill Increase Cited by U. S. Bureau

Washington, Dec. 14 (AP)—The Bureau of Labor Statistics said today the food bill of the average moderate-income city family rose almost 4½ per cent from mid-October to mid-November.

The average price rise for the month of goods and services important in the budgets of these families was two per cent, the bureau added, as costs other than food and rent climbed less than one per cent.

It said consumers' prices on November 15 were 14 per cent higher than on June 15—five months earlier—and 17 per cent higher than on last January 15.

State Librarian Helps at Senate Museum in City

Miss Edna Jacobsen, librarian in charge of manuscripts and history section of the New York State Library, was at the Senate House Museum this week to assist in establishing a reference library for Kingston and surrounding communities.

The Board of Trustees of the museum is anxious to secure further material of genealogical records, manuscripts, printed matter of historical value or containing historical information pertaining to Kingston and Ulster county even to the present day.

These objects will be carefully preserved and may be used by the public in the Senate House Museum which is open daily from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. and Sunday from 1 to 5 p. m. The material already at the museum has proved helpful to people in research work.

Miss Jacobsen spent Thursday and Friday at the museum classifying the items and planning to fill in many of the gaps with books from the State Library sources. Since the museum is a branch of the State Library she was naturally interested in the local supplies. Miss Jacobsen was especially interested in the Hoopes collection of manuscripts, books, pamphlets, pictures and family histories principally of Kingston and Ulster county.

John J. Vrooman, supervisor of historical sites, division of archives and history, of the State Education Department, who is directing the restoration of the Senate House, accompanied Miss Jacobsen.

Oxnam Urges Tolerance In Dealing With Reds

Buck Hill Falls, Pa., Dec. 14 (AP)—The United States can avoid fighting a third world war, says Methodist Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, if Americans are willing to make democracy work.

The New York prelate told the Methodist Board of Missions and Church Extension last night that Americans must use "our freedom to create a just and brotherly society" and support a foreign policy that faces the Russian issue with tolerance where tension is unavoidable.

Bishop Oxnam, who is president of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, declared that Russia's problems "would not be difficult of solution if they were divorced from Communist ideology."

"Communism cannot be conquered by force of arms," he asserted. "Men who summon us to a holy war against Communism are not only declaring war on Russia, but are diverting our attention from the primary obligation to democratize our own economic, political, ecclesiastical and social life."

The prelate insisted that Communism can make no headway where prosperity and plenty exists, but he added bluntly that it thrives "in the jungle growth of racial discrimination."

Says Federal Rent Plan Is 'Blockhead Control'

Washington, Dec. 14 (AP)—Senator Wiley (R-Wis.) today termed federal rent restrictions "blockhead control" and said the new Congress should turn the program over to the states without delay.

"Congress never intended," Wiley said in an interview, "that rent control should mean a blanket rent freeze. And yet that is exactly what we got under the O.P.A."

He added that many rents were frozen "at depression levels and never were adjusted." As a result, Wiley contended, "the government has castrated the rental wealth segment of our economy."

In urging state operation of rent controls, Wiley said that "by and large local people are far more competent to do the job than anyone else."

Peaceful be thy rest dear mother, it is sweet to breathe thy name. In life we loved you dearly, in death we do the same. The moon and stars are shining on the lone and silent grave. Beneath lies one we always loved, but whom we could not save. There are times when we still linger at the spot where you are laid.

When we come and scatter flowers on the grave that Christ has made.

THE CHANGE OF SPEED
A man with a speed demon's flair Drove his car with a nonchalant air.
He passes a red light
In his too-hurried flight.
So now he rides an invalid's chair.
—M. L. A.

A business executive stopped his car each morning as he passed a state institution. In the yard one of the inmates was continually going thru the motions of winding up and pitching an imaginary baseball.
Finally one of his friends asked: "Friend—Why do you stop each morning and watch that unfortunate fellow go thru his act?"
Business Executive— "Well, if things keep going the way they are, I'll be there some day catching for that guy and I want to get onto his curves."

For most of us, life is what we make it. But for some pedestrians, it's if he makes it.

Teacher—A collision is two things coming together unexpectedly. Junior, give me an example.
Junior—Twins.

A man with a broken arm, lacerated face, and bleeding nose entered the emergency room of a hospital. The nurse on duty began filling out the usual form.
Nurse—Married?
Man—No, just got hit by an automobile.

Lawyer—What's the idea of painting your car red on one side and blue on the other?
Client—It's a great idea. You should hear the witnesses contradicting themselves.

number of highway accidents. But defective drivers remain at the head of the list.

Youth's Ambition
Junior has ambitious views. He wants to fill his father's shoes. But Mary wants to do much better. She wants to fill her mother's sweater.

Junior—Daddy says there isn't another woman in the world like you, mother.
Mother—That's very flattering of him.
Junior—And he says it's a good thing, too.

New Stenographer—Where do we keep the round envelopes?
Office Manager—Round envelopes!

What do you want them for?
New Stenographer—My boss said to mail out some circulars.

Proposition Rests With Entrance of Franchise in Loop

Branch Rickey, Jr., "Turk" Karam Confer Here With Local Officials; Final Decision Due Sunday

Steps to enter Kingston in the Class D North Atlantic Baseball League were officially made here Friday afternoon when Branch Rickey, Jr., and A. B. "Turk" Karam of the Brooklyn Dodgers conferred with members of the Recreation Baseball Committee at the Hotel Stuyvesant.

Officials of the local committee who met the Dodger representatives were Addison Jones, Harry Edson, Bob Murray and Nick Kaslich. Mayor William F. Edelmuht also attended.

Proposition Offered
After a conference lasting four hours, Rickey, Jr., head of the entire Dodger minor league farm system, announced that he had offered a proposition to the local club for the 1947 season but that nothing was definite at this time.

Under Rickey's offer Kingston stands an excellent chance to take over the franchise in the North Atlantic League which was held by Newburgh and Walden last summer.

"The deal to acquire the Walden franchise has not been consummated as yet," Rickey said, "but we hope to obtain it Sunday afternoon at a meeting in Stroudsburg, Pa., at which time definite action will be taken. If the Brooklyn club does get the franchise, and Kingston accepts, minor league baseball will be staged here next summer."

"We have made our proposition," Rickey asserted, "but everything rests with the league from now on, providing of course, the Rec officials get the green light from the Common Council here in Kingston."

Recreation officials are slated to confer with interested members of the council some time today on the offer.

Rickey, Jr., son of the Dodger president, commented favorably on the baseball set-up in Kingston after viewing the stadium ball field early Friday afternoon. "The playing field looks very good and although some changes should be made in the seating arrangements, the entire project has tremendous possibilities."

Ask for Class C Loop
During Friday's negotiations members of the Rec board were made aware that Kingston or given a chance at Class C baseball—possibly in the Canadian-American League. The Dodger representative promised that if Kingston becomes a member of the North Atlantic League and shows progress, he would do his utmost to obtain a Class C franchise for the city.

"Playing in the N.A. loop next summer will be a big stepping stone for Kingston," Rickey declared. "It's the only possible way, however, as I must see how organized ball goes here."

Overriding Kingston secures the present open franchise in the Class D circuit, the league will have major loop support in every town except Nyack where negotiations are underway for a big league club to take over.

The present make-up of the league with major league support finds the New York Giants at Peekskill, N. Y., New York Yankees at Stroudsburg, Pa., New Jersey Braves at Bloomingdale, N. J., Philadelphia Phillies at Carbonale, Pa., and the Philadelphia Athletics at Mahoney City, Pa. The Boston Red Sox are about to complete a deal to take over at Nazareth, Pa.

In The Pocket

with CHARLIE TIANO

Dot Rawding, a member of Mayor Edelmuht's "wonder team"—the Mayorettes—has been flirting at the pearly gates of the "600 Club" for quite a spell. The gates opened wide Wednesday night in the Colonial Women's League—and in walked Mrs. Rawding with a gaudy 609 triple, the first six hundred effort of her career. Her scores 248-160-201—a tall lot of timber.

Mrs. Rawding has achieved remarkable success this season. She throws one of the more effective pinapples among the women and the impression exists she will be in the top bracket for a long time.

A GRAND OLD MAN: Jimmy Smith, of New York, perhaps the greatest bowler of all time, is being honored by metropolitan and New Jersey leagues at an all-day testimonial at the Riviera Recreation in New York today. Andy Varipapa, newly crowned national match game champion, Joe Falcato, ex-champion, Tony Sparando, Tullie Taylor, Ann Sabalowski, Mickey Michaels and a host of other tenpin celebrities will honor Jimmy.

One of the features of the celebration is the one-day revival of the greatest 5-man team in bowling history—the legendary Dwyer All Stars of New York. This famous team passed out of existence after only one match. No squad in the country wanted any part of them. The reason? They accepted a challenge from the Cleveland Canfields—Walter Ward, Joe Bodis, "Skang" Mercurio and company—and in an 18-game home-and-home test, averaged a mere 1067 per game. That scared all the opposition out of circulation, even Hank Marino and the Milwaukee sharpies and Ad Carlson's Chicago hotshots.

The personnel of the Dwyer team included five all-time bowling greats—Andy Varipapa, Mort Lindsey, Joe Falcato, Chester Arnbrust and Barney Spinella. Brethren, there was a powerhouse!

THE GALS KEEP ROLLING: Kaye Sportswear has averaged approximately 859 per game in reeling off four straight victories. . . . The Kingston sharpshooters are in Middletown tonight for the second block of their match. . . . A week from tonight, the squad will be idle, but Rose Schatzel and Evelyn Moore will be in Albany competing in singles tests against Viola Morrison and Ruby Hunter. . . . The gals roll five games there and five more in Kingston. . . . Mayor Edelmuht, who never misses a big bowling match, and has a pretty fair squad of his own, the Mayorettes, saw Kayes knock off Albany. . . . Bob Chalmers is readying a second Albany team to send against Kayes.

WHAT'S THIS? Charlie Husta shoots a dazzling 69 on Tuesday, December 10. . . . Roy Vogt hits No. 6 green at Wilkwyte in three and Watts Bailey uncorks a 79. . . . Is this the dreary month of December?

OF MEN AND MICE: Tom "Tip" Sheldon, a member of the fabulous Middletown State Hospital team of the Brown Hunter era, recently posted a perfect 300 score in Middletown. . . . We have always felt that the greatest team in Hudson Valley League history was the Hospital combine of Emil Gabarino, Tip Sheldon, "Red" Leeson, Art Gunderson and Brown Hunter. . . . The latter was the most dynamic anchor we ever saw. . . .

Long time ago, it seems, but Larry Petersen Jr., blasted a 655 series in the Major League. . . . Everybody appears to have overlooked, so here is a belated but sincere posey. . . .

Advice to young bowlers—and the senile one, too—try staying away from the scoresheet for an entire match some time. . . . See if it doesn't improve your game.

BASKETBALL RETURNS: This is basketball night at municipal auditorium. . . . The Kingston Chiefs meet a stellar attraction in the Newark Bombers. . . . The success or failure of the professional enterprise will be decided in the next few games. . . . If you are genuinely interested in keeping pro basketball here, you can best show your interest by purchasing a ticket.

FINAL REMINDER: The Kingston High School A. A. dinner tonight at the Y.M.C.A. You can attend the banquet, hear "Ox" DeGross and see the pro basketball game, all in one night.

School Is Decorated
The Student Council, the Library Council and the Owl's Club have decorated the halls of the Michael School for Christmas. In the main corridor they have erected a large Christmas tree. Ruth DeGroat, Doug Meyers, Richard
C. Hatham, Arthur Carpozis, Clarence Beehler and Jane Markle represented the Student Council; Ruth DeGroat and Betty Flint the Owl's Club; and Phyllis Peters and Marilyn Emmick the Library Council. The students' mail box will be placed in the library to enable boys and girls to send cards to friends throughout the school.

Christmas Program
The M.J.M. Music Department has planned a program to be presented Monday through Friday.
The schedule is as follows:

Monday, Girls' Chorus.
Tuesday, Mixed Chorus, Instrumental Group.

Wednesday, School Orchestra.
Thursday, Girls' Chorus, Mixed Chorus, Instrumental Group, and the School Orchestra.

Friday, Special assembly conducted by Dorothea Groves.

A special program of patriotic and Christmas melodies will be played by the orchestra under the direction of Roy A. Edelfelt, director of orchestral music. The melodies will be: A National Medley, Silent Night, Hard the Herald Angels Sing, Jingle Bells, The
First Noel, Deck the Halls, and O,
Come All Ye Faithful.

The School Orchestra will play in schools 2, 5, 6, 7 and 8 during the week at special assemblies made possible by Principals Raymond Lignall, Ambrose Boyd and Stephen Hyatt.

Mrs. Sydney Plisser's students will sing Christmas songs in Latin and the program will conclude with a showing of the film
"America the Beautiful."

Library Council Discussion
Members of the Program Committee of the Library Council devoted a meeting period to the discussion of Christmas. Topics such as the origin of Christmas, the Magi, St. Nicholas and the manner of Christmas celebration in the Philippines, Mexico and Rumania were discussed. Books which were particularly useful were Then's "Christmas," Gardner's
"Let's Celebrate Christmas," and Becker's "Home Book of Christmas." Books about holidays which provide descriptions of all the important days in the calendar were also used.

Teachers use the library books on Christmas for many purposes.
Books as "The Shining Christmas Tree," "The Fireside Book of Christmas Stories," "Stories to be Read at Christmas," "Christmas in Storyland" and "The Home Book of Christmas" provide appropriate stories and poems to be read to home rooms and English classes or to Sunday school classes.

One of the dramatic clubs has been seeking a Christmas play.
"The Appleton Book of Christmas Plays" proved ideal for this purpose.

The Games Club has evinced a desire for Christmas games. "The Party Book" and "Social Games for Recreations" have made their

Girls' Camera Club

The Girls' Camera Club has a membership of 30. Jacqueline O'Banks is president and Mary Dunn is secretary. The girls are taking pictures of school activities to be submitted in a contest with the boys' Camera Club.
Last week the two clubs joined in a group discussion centering around slide photography. As soon as a dark room is completed they will learn to develop and print pictures. In the meantime they are studying background, exposure and portraits.

Girls' Aviation Club

Miss Alice L. Costello has formed a Girls' Aviation Club which is now known as the "Sky Riders".
This name was submitted by Jacquelyn Roberson in a prize competition. Beatrice Stewart was a prize winner. Beatrice Stewart was runner-up with her title of "The Cloud Hoppers." Officers of the club are Anna Suski, president; Betty Rieder, vice-president; Anna Volynskie, secretary. The club program includes study of the air, function of the air plane in modern society, and the practical aspects of flying.

'Planted' Detective
Killed in Gun Fight

New York, Dec. 14 (AP)—A 49-year old detective who was "planted" in a Bronx liquor store as part of a police move to curb a recent outbreak of robberies of such establishments, was shot to death last night in a gun battle with two men during an attempted holdup of the store.

Police said the detective, James Burke, a member of the Police Honor Legion, had stationed himself behind stacked cases in the store for about an hour when the holdup pair, Negroes, entered.

Richard Shaw, 34, son of the owner, was behind the counter and dropped to the floor when one of the bandits, flourishing a revolver, cried: "This is a stick-up."

Burke came out of his hiding place at that point and traded shots with the two men, emptying one of his service revolvers before being struck in the head three times.

The holdup men escaped.

Woman Is Sentenced

Paterson, N. J., Dec. 14 (AP)—
Mrs. Elizabeth Baunach, 37-year-old blonde tavernkeeper, was under sentence from seven to 10 years in Clinton Reformatory today after her conviction last night on a charge of manslaughter in the slaying of William Kaley, Jr., a bartender in her tavern. Mrs.
Baunach, mother of an 18-year-old boy, broke down and wept when Passaic County Judge Joseph A. Delaney imposed sentence immediately after the jury's verdict.
She was assisted from the courtroom.

(AP)—A midnight deadline to leave town or be hanged—threatened in a red-stained note signed "KKK"— passed without incident today for a 22-year-old negro war veteran whose home was burned last week.

Police guarded the negro, John T. Walker, here while his wife and two children remained out of town as a precautionary measure.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Walter H.
Moore said he believed a "crank" wrote the note to Walker and another to Mrs. R. A. Isenberg, of Palo Alto, Calif., chairman of a fair play committee handling the race problem and aiding Walker in obtaining donations to rebuild his home.

U.N.R.R.A. Council Sets Its Deadline For Feeding World

Washington, Dec. 14 (AP)—The 48-nation U.N.R.R.A. Council dispersed today after setting a tentative three-month deadline for completion of its good samaritan mission to the world's hungry nations.

Climaxing a four-day meeting, the organization accepted the resignation of Director General Fiorello H. LaGuardia and elected Maj. Gen. Lowell W. Rooks as his successor.

President Truman sent Under Secretary of State Dean Acheson to give LaGuardia the nation's highest civil decoration, the Medal of Merit.

Mr. Truman also dispatched a personal message declaring that LaGuardia's efforts had earned "the gratitude of millions in the world who were threatened with starvation."

LaGuardia's resignation becomes effective December 31. Rooks, former deputy chief of staff under General Dwight D. Eisenhower, will handle procurement and shipment of U.N.R.R.A.'s remaining $626,000,000 in supplies.

U.N.R.R.A. officials estimated the organization handled approximately $3,650,000,000 in its two year program of mercy and that the United States still has about $340,000,000 allocated to pending shipments.

Over sharp-spoken Soviet opposition, the United States won a major victory when the council approved the American demand that future relief be sent "where and when needed"—rather than according to fixed programs or schedules.

An organ stop is not a key, but a rank of pipes each sounding one note.

TRAIN WRECK VICTIM REMOVED

Firemen and volunteer rescue workers remove an unidentified victim of the three-way train wreck near Mansfield, O. The man was a passenger on the Pennsylvania Railroad's "Golden Triangle" which ploughed into two wrecked freight trains. (AP Wirephoto)

N. Y. Loft Building Burns

New York, Dec. 14 (AP)—A seven-story loft building in lower Manhattan was virtually demolished today by a three alarm fire which destroyed a large quantity of baled clothing destined for relief shipment abroad. The building, blazed for more than an hour, the flames illuminating the area for several blocks and filling the neighborhood with smoke. Origin of the fire was not determined.

Will Suspend Pupils

Chicago, Dec. 14 (AP)—More than 20 pupils at McKinley High School who walked out of classes yesterday for the second time in a week will be suspended for 30 days, says Principal Nellie M. Quinn. Several hundred of the 1,125 students at the school stayed away from classes Monday, protesting lack of a school football team, a ban on girls' slacks and other grievances. School authorities had promised consideration of their demands and the walkout ended.

Five Youths Are Held

Los Angeles, Dec. 14 (AP)—Five youths, ranging in age from 15 to 18, were booked today for investigation in the brutal rape-bludgeoning of Mrs. Naomi Tullis Cook, 52, sportswear clerk formerly of Texarkana, Tex., whose body was found Wednesday behind a park rest room.
